

Addison Group develops overseas finance team for chemical manufacturing company

A chemical manufacturing company based in the Seattle, Washington metropolitan area was restructuring its finance and accounting team. The client sought talent based in Mexico City to handle day-to-day financial processing to free up bandwidth for their US team.

Challenge

An Addison Group client shared plans to restructure their finance and accounting department and quickly needed to secure local accounting talent to handle processing. Their US-based F&A team wanted more bandwidth to focus on higher-level strategic decisions, process improvement, ERP implementations, and streamlining their financial incentives. Additionally, outsourcing these general accounting roles with local candidates in Mexico would be more cost-efficient.

Solutions

After consulting with the client, it was determined that a successful restructuring required eight roles—including Accounts Payable, Accounts Receivable, Tax Specialists, and a Finance Manager—to build their team in Mexico City.

Addison Group's Global Excellence Center, specializing in offshore staffing solutions, began to screen top local candidates and coordinate interviews with finalists for the client. The GEC's deep understanding of the client's culture
